

Excellent! Now here's the detailed presentation script for the third speaker:

Speaker 3: Reshmi

Topic: Goals – What are we trying to achieve with MessFinder?

Script (Presentation Story)

Thank you, Priti.

Now that we understand the problem clearly, let's talk about the goals we focused on while developing MessFinder.

When our team sat down to plan this project, we agreed that we didn't just want to build another website. We wanted to create something purpose-driven, something that's actually useful for people like us.

So we defined three main goals for this project:

First Goal: To connect room seekers with owners directly

We wanted to remove all the middlemen and fake sources. MessFinder allows users to search for PGs easily, and contact the owner directly – either by chat, call, or profile visit. This creates transparency and builds trust.

Second Goal: To make it easy, fast, and secure

Many people are not very tech-savvy. So we kept our design simple and clean. Users can search, view rooms, and contact owners without confusion. Owners can list PGs using a basic form with images. We also added Firestore Authentication to keep it secure.

Third Goal: To support the local rental economy

Many small PG owners do not have the tools to promote their listings online. With MessFinder, they don't need a broker or a Facebook ad. They can post directly – which helps them grow their business, and helps students save money.

So these were our three key goals:

Connectivity, Simplicity, and Social Support.

And as we move ahead in the presentation, you'll see how each feature we built helps us move toward these goals.

Now I'd like to invite Souvik, who will explain the social impact of MessFinder and how it can benefit the community.

Tips for Reshmi:

- Speak with warmth – the "goals" section should sound inspiring
 - Use small pauses after each goal to let it sink in
 - Smile a little when you mention helping others (owners, students)
 - Maintain a confident but soft tone

Likely Viva/Panel Questions for Reshmi:

Q: How is this platform more secure than others?

A: We use Firebase Authentication, and our chat is secure and role-based. Users cannot access or edit anything without proper permission.

Q: Why did you include PG owners in your goals?

A: Because most PG owners in small towns don't have a way to promote online. MessFinder gives them visibility without extra cost.

Q: Is this only for students?

A: Not at all. It's also useful for interns, job seekers, or anyone relocating temporarily.
